

$115,000 SUITS ECHO OF ROBBERY

Actions Aftermath Of Famous Theft Of $200,000 Gems

Two suits for $115,000 have been brought by Morris Gincig, wholesale jeweler, against C. P. Hugo Schoellkopf, of Buffalo, in connection with the theft of jewelry from Mr. Schoellhoff's former wife.

In an action for $100,000 Gincig asks damages for malicious prosecution, charging that Schoellkopf caused his indictment for receiving a pearl necklace alleged to have been stolen from the former Mrs. Schoellkopf and then consented to have the indictment dismissed against the wishes of Gincig.

A second action for $15,000 is brought against Schoellkopf and his attorney, former State Senator George F. Thompson of Lockport, N. Y., on the ground that this sum was paid for the recovery of the necklace.

Gincig charges that he disbursed the money and delivered the necklace, and that, although Thompson said he had received $15,000 from his client with which to reimburse the plaintiff and had deposited checks for this amount in the bank in order that he might deliver cash to Gincig, the money was not forthcoming.

The petitions were filed in the Supreme Court yesterday on applications by Gincig, to be heard tomorrow by Justice Ingraham, for an examination of Schoellkopf and Thompson before trial in the $15,000 suit and to strike out Schoellkopf's answer in the $100,000 action.

Gincig alleges in the $100,000 suit against Schoellkopf that in March and April, 1924, the defendant caused a number of persons to go before the grand jury and testify against him "for the purpose of having an indictment for receiving stolen property returned," and after the plaintiff had been held in bail and pleaded not guilty, the indictment was dismissed.

The necklace in question was part of the $200,000 worth of gems stolen from Mrs. Irene M. Schoellkopf on the morning of January 1, 1923, when she was attending a New Year's Eve party in the apartment of Frank Barrett Carman, dancing instructor at 84 West 54th St.

Mrs. Schoellkopf had been separated from her husband, a manufacturing chemist, most of the time since the robbery. She got a divorce in Paris this summer. The jewels were recovered and several convictions resulted.

Actress Held in Raid On Show Over 'Hot' Jokes

Detectives led by Sergt. McGovern of West 123d Street station last night raided the Apollo stock burlesque theater, 211 West 125th St., after the performance and arrested the manager, a ticket taker, three actors and two actresses.

It is charged that all except the ticket taker and manager aided and abetted and participated in an immoral performance.

Detective Dahlem said the arrests were based on jokes "hot enough to melt asbestos."

Lay Hotel's Ruin By Surf at Shore To Political Fight

LONG BEACH, L. I., Sept. 15.—

Consistent pounding of the beach and boardwalk here by high seas since the storm of a fortnight ago resulted in the five-story Hotel Brighton being evacuated by sixty guests today as the structure started to crumble.

The hotel sagged and a wide crack appeared from roof to cellar in the front of the building. The hotel was built eight years ago at a cost of $2,000,000. It was feared the entire structure might collapse.

Political squabbles have delayed too long the building of jetties to fortify the beaches and waterfront streets from the rough waters, in the opinion of many of the townsfolk.

Says Industrial Peace Increases

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 15.—

Industrial peace between employers and employees has never been greater in the history of the country than at present, Robert H. Spahr, in charge of the employer-employee service of the Department of Manufacture of the United States Chamber of Commerce, at Washington, told 130 delegates of 100 New Jersey industrial firms attending Rutgers University's industrial conference.

"A growing and fuller realization on the part of the management of the importance of the human relation in industry has been, I believe, responsible in no small measure for this relationship," he said.

State Attacks Sacco Evidence In Murder Case

DEDHAM, MASS., Sept. 15.—

The state has opened its case against Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti. Assistant District Attorney Dudley P. Ranney of Norfolk county began the reading of twenty-seven affidavits and depositions in opposition to the motion by the defense that the two radicals, convicted five years ago of murder, receive a new trial.

The proceedings are based on a confession made by Celestine F. Madeiros, convicted of another murder in Massachusetts, that he was a member of a gang of bandits who committed the crime of which Sacco and Vanzetti were found guilty.

Several affidavits were read by Mr. Ranney intended to refute the confession of Madeiros that he and four members of the gang were implicated in the South Braintree murder and not Sacco and Vanzetti. He will read additional affidavits to this effect when court convenes today.

Windsor Castle Burglary Hidden in Deep Mystery

LONDON, Sept. 15 (By U. P.).—The premises of the King of England have been burglarized, under the nose of the King's brother-in-law, the Marquess of Cambridge, governor and constable of Windsor Castle.

WEDS IN FLORIDA

The marriage of Miss Eleanor Helena Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Nelson of St. Petersburg, Fla., to Thomas Jacques Lancaster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lancaster of 324 West 108th Street, took place yesterday afternoon in the First Methodist Church, St. Petersburg.

There is great mystery about the affair, though a prisoner has been caught and arraigned in the Windsor police court. The prisoner refused to give his name, declared upon arraignment that his head was badly muddled and was haled to the bar as "the nameless one." Much investigation is under way.

But "the nameless one" has set up a mystery which neither military experience nor diplomatic skill yet has solved.

Koenig in Partial Victory; State Primary Vote Light

An early check-up today of the results in the primary election in the state reveals that the voters failed to come strongly to the polls, probably because of no very outstanding issues.

The Koenig forces won a victory when two Assembly leadership contests which were opposed to them failed to carry the votes. John Kane, Jr., in the Third Assembly District south, defeated Richard M. Greenbank, while in the Twenty-first Robert S. Conklin received more support than Julian W. Watson.

The Koenig opponents scored a victory, however, when former State Senator Schuyler M. Meyer won in the Fifteenth Assembly District.

In Queens the Republican organization designees were triumphant.

At Hempstead the only contest of importance in the Nassau county Democratic primaries was waged for membership on the state committee in the First Assembly District. Former Deputy Attorney General Thomas J. Cuff was leading.

Jewish Social Training School to Graduate 11

By NATHAN T. ZALINSKY

Dr. Lee K. Frankel, vice-president of the Metropolitan Insurance Company, will deliver the principal address this afternoon in the Hotel Astor, at the first commencement exercises of The Training School for Jewish Social Work, established last year to supply the need for professionally trained social workers.

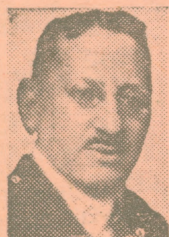

Other addresses will be made by:

Julius Rosenwald of Chicago, first president of the school; Louis E. Kirstein of Boston, who is now president; Felix M. Warburg, chairman of the executive committee of the school; Dr. Solomon Lowenstein, of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies; Porter R. Lee, director of the Training School for Jewish Social Work.

The class of 1926 includes Annette E. Cohen, Lena Gassell, Pauline Gollub, Herman Jacobs, Jessie Joselowitz, Pearl Learner, Susan Mandell, Edith Mozorosky, Louis Shocket, Harold Silver and Mildred Simon.

The training school was instituted by the National Conference of Jewish Social Service and the funds for its organization were made available through the New York Foundation, the Nathan Hofheimer Foundation and private contributors.

The purpose of the school is to offer facilities for the initial training of new social workers from all parts of the country and for the supplementary training of those now in the fields. It aims to help in the discovery and the equipment of leaders for the growing communal activity of American Jewry. It is a graduate school and requires for admission, in addition to graduation from a recognized college, adequate personality, interest in and adaptability for Jewish social work.
